Marketing Students Establish Liaison With AMA

Annual Homecoming Weekend Will Be Held In May

Alumni Make Plans for This Year's Reunion

Plans for the homecoming weekend in May were further developed at the Alumni Council Meeting held on March 13. The main event of the weekend will be the alumni banquet dinner on May 19, to be held at the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel. The entertainment committee headed by Bill Connors is planning a roast beef dinner with all the "fixins." He expects that the alumni will have worked up a healthy appetite by Saturday evening after they have visited the campus and their old stomping grounds.

Highlight of the banquet will be an address by Senator John O. Pastore on the topic of atomic energy. Senator Pastore, who is a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, is well qualified to speak on the subject. Those of us who have heard Senator Pastore speak before know that he is both an interesting and entertaining speaker.

After the dinner Tommy Masso and his band will provide music for dancing beginning at 10 o'clock. Members of the senior class and their dates will be invited to the dance.

Homecoming weekend will be a busy one for both students and alumni. In addition to the banquet and dance Saturday night, other attractions are planned.

On Friday night early-arriving alumni from out of town will enjoy a show put on by the students. It is expected that either the "Brevities" or "Stunt Night" will be scheduled for Friday.

During Saturday afternoon Dr. Jacobs will receive visiting alumni in the Administration Building while members of the faculty and student representatives of the fraternities and sororities will greet the alumni in the gym. The fraternities and sororities will have booths set up in the gym for the occasion.

The Second Annual Spring Jazz Festival sponsored by the Bryant Greek Letter Council will be held in the Hope High School Auditorium on Sunday afternoon. The jazz concert will provide a lively finale for the events of the weekend.

Articles On International Affairs To Be Presented In Archway By IRC

By ROGER MARTINDALE

Beginning with this issue a series of articles on international affairs will be featured in the ARCHWAY. These articles will summarize the major events in international affairs and will endeavor to give students' viewpoints regarding international events, as these viewpoints have been expressed at meetings of the International Relations Club.

At our first meeting, the crises in the Middle East were discussed and the question arose, "Has Russia succeeded in undermining our influence in the Middle East?" Many people think they have, mainly by provoking the Arab-Israel conflict. First of all, they've upset the balance of military power by selling arms to Arabian forces. This move instituted a feeling of confident independence on the part of the Arab nations, inasmuch as they feel that victory will ultimately be theirs in the event of war. The uncertainty that characterizes our policy has allowed the communists to take the lead in militarily strategic and economically critical areas. Saudi Arabia's extensive oil fields can be a valuable asset to either faction of the cold war. The fact that our own oil productivity is gradually decreasing throws an even greater importance upon this area. Furthermore, our air bases in that area are within 700 miles of the Russian border. Because of this we cannot, under any circumstances, lose our stronghold in this area. Loss of this area would also blockade the main British export line to the Far East by closing the Suez Canal. On the other hand, our close political ties make it mandatory that we aid Israel. But by sending them arms we would bring about an arms race. This would also cause Egypt to be sympathetic to Russian influence. Furthermore, our principles of democracy demand that we help Israel preserve its sovereignty.

Meanwhile, the Greek majority on Cyprus has related its intentions for self-government and alliance with Greece. The deportation of Archbishop Makarios, the spiritual and political leader of the Greeks on charges that he instigated national violence against British forces, has brought the situation to a boiling point. The Greeks, who constitute 80% of the total population, seek an alliance between Cyprus and Greece. Turkey, on the other hand, does not want to see the Turkish minority on the island exposed to Greek influences. This may bring about a division of NATO forces, since Britain, Greece, and Turkey are members of NATO. Undoubtedly, this is the ultimate aim of Moscow.

In conclusion, at virtually every point in the Mediterranean area the West is faced with steady deterioration of its position with the focal point being the Arab-Israel situation. Perhaps, the most logical solution is to request aid from the United Nations. What do you think?

PROFESSOR GEORGE W. BATES DISCUSSES MARKETING CLUB PLANS WITH ARCHWAY REPORTER.

Marketing Club Holds Organizational Meeting

By FRANK GALLANT

On Monday afternoon, March 13, students of Marketing met in Gardner Hall to discuss plans for the formation of a Marketing Club. There were forty-two students present from the two sections of the Business Administration Division of Bryant College.

After a brief resume on the requirements of officers, a temporary chairman was appointed to accept nominations for the election of the club's leaders. The result of the voting was: Raymond Villella, President; Howard Baptista, Vice President; Enzo Rotatori, Secretary; Harry Maynard, Treasurer. Professor George W. Bates, faculty advisor to the club, introduced the various functions of the club to the group and explained the way in which the Marketing Club is to be directly associated with a national organization called the American Marketing Association. The AMA is comprised of business men in the United States and Foreign countries who have united on a professional level for the purpose of advancing the science of Marketing.

One of the most important purposes of the American Marketing Association is to improve marketing personnel and to study personnel problems. Its members feel that the best way to begin is by establishing a liaison with the potential marketing personnel at the student level. To accomplish this result, they have established a program sponsoring clubs for marketing students, to operate within the framework of the Association. The AMA has active student groups in more than thirty-four colleges and universities at the present time. Through this medium it is able to supplement the fine work being done in the classroom by bringing business men from the marketing field to the college clubs for talks on the application of marketing principles to practical business problems. The information that the student gains from these talks will be of great value when he enters the field. Field trips through marketing departments are also used to aid the student wherever possible.

The second meeting of the Bryant Marketing Club, which will be announced by the officers, will be held primarily to vote for a second vice-president and to schedule the activities for the remainder of the semester.

Newman Club Hears Recorded Talk by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen

By CLYDE WADE

The second meeting of the Newman Club for the present semester was held in the Barn, Monday evening, March 13, at 6:30 p.m. After a short business meeting, a tape-recording of an excellent talk by Bishop Fulton J. Sheen was presented. The subject of the talk "Courtship" both entertained and enlightened the group. During the business meeting, Charles D'Angelo, President of the Club, reminded members to attend the Communion Breakfast at Cleary Hall immediately after the 10 a.m. Mass at St. Joseph's Church Sunday, March 25. Committees were formed for the forthcoming Interfaith Dance to be held March 24. Louise Tatro was elected ARCHWAY reporter for the Club. Delegates were appointed to a regional convention to be held at the University of New Hampshire on April 13, 14, and 15. Any interested members wishing to attend should see Mr. D'Angelo before March 26.

The next meeting will be held in the Barn, March 26, at 6:30 p.m. featuring a talk by Monsignor Geoghegan on "Mixed Marriages." All interested students of the College are invited to attend. You need not be a member of Newman to attend this meeting. New officers introduced are Charles D'Angelo, President; Nora Hurley, Vice-President; Marcia Kapinos, Secretary; Don Jacques, Treasurer.

Hope to see you at our next meeting.

PRISCILLA M. MOULTON

Professor Priscilla M. Moulton Speaks at Boston University Teachers' Workshop

On Saturday, March 10, Professor Priscilla M. Moulton, Supervisor of Secretarial Studies, discussed the subject "Developing Better Secretaries Through a Job Clinic." This "Workshop in the Teaching of Secretarial Studies," for teachers of business subjects, meets regularly on Saturday mornings to study current problems in this field. Top-flight speakers, educators, and authors are invited to lecture. Some sixty teachers are presently enrolled for this course which they are taking for graduate credits. Following Professor Moulton's lecture, a panel of three Bryant College instructors led a discussion, including Earle A. Messer, Assistant Professor of Economics, who acted as chairman; Marie G. Bonin, Bryant '54, Short-hand and Typewriting Instructor; and Richard A. Bruno, Instructor of Accounting and Business Mathematics.

PROFESSOR AND MRS. IIDA

Japanese Attitude Toward Life And Religion Discussed

On Monday, March 13, a tea was given in Salisbury Hall by the Greek Letter Council featuring a talk on Japanese life by Professor and Mrs. Shotaro Iida of Tohoku and Kyut Universities.

They discussed the Japanese attitude toward life and religion and the symbolism of the tea ceremony.

The tea ceremony is a religious rite, formal in nature, that takes approximately two hours to perform. The ceremony is usually conducted by the wife of the host. She removes all jewelry from her hands, since the essence of the ceremony is humility and simplicity. After the tea has been prepared, the wife ceremoniously presents it to her husband.

In the evening Professor Iida compared the views of his people and ours. He showed a superb color film entitled "Kimino," which depicted the great variety and beauty of Japanese dress and the scenic wonder of Japan.

The VA Corner

By BOB SUGARMAN

Veterans of the Korean and post-Korean conflict period are losing valuable GI insurance rights because they are filing applications for special five-year term policies four months after separation instead of the allowed 120 days.

The law grants only 120 days in which to apply for this nonconvertible term policy without medical examination, said Manager John L. Reavey of the Veterans Administration's Regional Office at Providence.

"One hundred and twenty days," Reavey explained, "can be, and usually is, less than four months. So, when a Korean or post-Korean veteran counts on a four-month leeway and thus files his application one, two, or three days late, he cannot be granted insurance under the law."

Not only must the application for this special five-year nonconvertible term policy be filed with VA within the 120-day period after separation, but the first premium must also be paid within the same period.

A longer period of time in which to apply is granted to Korean or post-

Korean veterans who are found by the VA to have service-connected disabilities. These veterans must apply within one year from the date the VA finds their disabilities to be service-connected, and they must pass a medical examination to show they are otherwise insurable except for their service-connected disabilities.

Moreover, Reavey added, their choice of GI insurance plans is wider. They may apply for a five-year term policy or for any of six permanent plans of insurance.

"Even the term policy for these disabled veterans is different," Reavey explained. "It is convertible, whereas the term policy for which Korean and post-Korean veterans must apply within 120 days after separation is non-convertible. However, all of these policies, whether convertible or non-convertible, are nonparticipating—that is, no dividends may be paid on them."

Any VA office will be glad to assist Korean and post-Korean veterans in applying for the GI insurance to which they may be entitled.

Decision

We have at our disposal one world indivisible. We have all the rights and duties of ownership. We have every opportunity. We have every possibility of consequence.

We have at our disposal means by which our world may be removed from time and space. We have all the forces of matter and energy reduced to an equation. We have every conceivable chance to spread havoc. We have in our hands the seeds of destruction.

We have at our disposal the means to an end.

We, the peoples of the world inseparable, have our very existence at stake. We have but to release the mighty strength of the material universe—energy, pure and potent.

We, the inhabitants of a shrinking world in an expanding universe, may unleash the very substance upon which that universe is constructed. We have the means.

What will be the end?

Masquers Rehearse New Production

By AL HILLIS

The first play of the semester is in the making. Last Wednesday, Masquers began rehearsal of their forthcoming production of the three-act comedy "Time Out For Ginger." This same play was presented by Producer's Showcase on Television just a few months ago, starring the fabulous Jack Benny. Those of you who saw it know of the side-splitting, knee-slapping comedy contained within the script. It's a "gasser."

The undertaking of this play is certainly a challenge to the Masquers group. The script calls for fast moving, humorous dialogue by the cast without so much as a snicker or blush. However, the general feeling of the members of the group and their director Mrs. Appleby is that they can do it. You've got to admit with a spirit such as theirs there isn't much of a chance of failure.

The comedy is staged around a 14-year old female dynamo named Ginger. This little fire-ball, with all her tomboy inclinations, is convinced that she is going to play football and is prompted by her own ego to try out for the high school football team. As a matter of fact, she firmly believes that it is her duty to make the team. Does she! To find out will cost you one of the most enjoyable evenings you have had in quite awhile. Just when that evening will be has not yet been made public. Watch this column for the exact date, time, and place.

Just to arouse your curiosity a little, here is a line that occurs in the second act. "She has discovered a new sex; boys, girls, and equals." To find out what this and other statements and actions, such as this, mean will require you to be "front row-center" for the production of "Time Out For Ginger." . . . A comedy in three acts. Watch for it!

Tons of Snow Enshroud Campus

Bryant Victim of Enormous "Snow Job" . . . Spring—"Phffft"

Once again, staid New Englanders dig their composure out of tons of all-enveloping slush as Spring (a fallacy around here) hit New England like a Siberian secret weapon. However, it seems our enforced vacation was not without its lighter moments. Some of our intellectual neighbors across the alley "borrowed" serving trays from their cafeteria and spent a considerable amount of time investigating the cultural and aesthetic aspects of "free form" sledding or "poetry in motion" as applied to snow, if you will. I understand their dignity came away unscathed, but the serving trays were slightly the worse for wear.

"Snow-jinks" were much in evidence around Bryant, too, with informal parties and good times taking place at the drop of a hat. Minor catastrophes seem to engender a sudden, universal need of companionship and small talk, for during a storm, people will walk miles through enormous snow drifts or knee deep water to pass the time of day with a friend, when ordinarily they wouldn't walk across the street.

Of course everyone talks about it, and, of course, nobody does anything about it—even as far as predicting it; but it's certainly not below us snow-haters to fervently wish we were elsewhere—in Florida, perhaps (sigh). — Ed.

Bryant Grad Appointed Tax Collector

Lewis H. Shaker, class of '50, was recently appointed tax collector for the town of Winchester—City of Winsted, Connecticut.

In his letter to the Bryant Alumni Secretary, Mr. Shaker had this to say about Bryant training: "The education that I received at Bryant was a prime factor in my appointment as Tax Collector for the City of Winsted—Town of Winchester. My name was selected from a long list of possible candidates primarily because of my Bryant background. One of the first questions asked was: 'Is it not true that you graduated with honors from Bryant?', so you will see why I am eternally grateful for the sound foundation the professors implemented in me during my stay at Bryant from 1948 to 1950."

The Bryant Reservist

By DAVID SNYDER

Why should anyone join an Army Reserve unit? Why should anyone give up his Monday evenings to march around and listen to more lectures?

I had several good reasons for doing so.

First, I needed more money. I get one full days' pay, in accordance with my rank, for each two hour meeting I attend. Each quarter I get a check from Uncle Sam. It would take me twice as many hours to equal that check at a part-time job. I get that much more time for study and, as my instructors will tell you, I need it. Second, I want to complete some of my military obligation and gain a rank while I am still in school. I've got a six year military obligation just like everyone else. Two or three years of this obligation must be spent in the Ready Reserve, so I decided I would complete some of that time right now. I can earn a rank in the unit too, and thereby be that much better off when I do go on active duty. Third, I find the Bryant unit convenient in location. I don't have to travel across town to earn my two hours' pay. Meetings are held in Gardner Hall where I can get to them easily. The fact of the matter is, I had no intention of joining a reserve unit until the Bryant unit was formed.

Several other people I have talked to, feel the same as I about the reserves. A friend of mine in the Naval Reserve said he wanted to insure himself of a favorable draft status while he was still in college. Another friend of mine in the Marine Reserve said he thought it would be good experience and help him in the future. I think there are advantages for everyone who joins a reserve unit. Come to one of our meetings in Room G1A at 7:00, Monday evenings, and see what the reserves have to offer you.

Secretarial Department Triumphs . . . Exciting Moments Caught by Our "ace" Cameramen In Great Basketball Exhibition

by JACK HALL

By winning two out of the three exhibition basketball games sponsored by the Teacher Training Society, the secretarial department of Bryant College proved its athletic prowess to be better than that of the business administration department.

In the first game, which was between the male BA students and a group of men students representing the secretarial department, the BA team won 44-39. Dick Mellen of the BA squad was the top scorer of the contest with 17 points. Joe Trepani and Richie Gayer shared scoring honors for the "Sec" team with 14 points each.

The second game pitted the secretarial girls against the BA girls. This was a closely fought contest and the outcome could have gone either way. The "Sec" girls finally won 22-21. Joan Bannerman was the leading scorer for the winners with 10 points. Mary Lou Conway and Gail Van Sicklen divided the scoring for the BA girls. The former hooped 11 points and the latter 10.

In another well-played contest, the secretarial men teachers defeated the BA men teachers 48-29. Dr. Morrison and Mr. Paul led their team to victory with 21 and 10 points respectively. Mr. Yorks with 23 points and Vin Fahey with 13 points paced the losers. The teachers needed help from the student body, because enough teachers were not present to play as a unit from each department.

"Kudos" to Miss Modica

Once again it is time to take a deep bow in the direction of Miss Lonnie Modica. How come? Well, Miss Modica was recently auditioned at the Academy of Dramatic Arts in New York City. Her polished talent successfully brought her through the audition with flying colors. As a matter of fact, she did so well that she is now being considered for a scholarship at the same institution.

Make no mistake about it, The Academy of Dramatic Arts is a very difficult place to get in to. A person must really have something on the "ball" just to be accepted at the school, let alone be considered for a scholarship. For example, look at the audition schedule.

One comedy scene—"The Florist Shop."

One dramatic scene—Murder

scene from "Nine Girls."

Singing—"Autumn Leaves", "Can't Help Loving That Man of Mine."

Audition board—Howard Linsey and Richard Wooman, both outstanding Broadway director-producers. Mr. Spencer Tracy, outstanding actor and director of the school.

Audition Time—One hour and one-half.

Miss Modica's plans for the future are to enroll in The Academy of Dramatic Arts after graduation from Bryant in August. She plans to concentrate on dramatic roles in the legitimate theatre, and if the opportunity presents itself, act in Broadway musical comedies.

Miss Modica will be appearing in the presentations of the Glee Club and Masquers this semester, so you will all have an opportunity to see her in action.

Bryant to Represent Providence YMCA in Interstate Tournament

By LARRY DELAHUNTY

The Bryant Indians, an independent organization, composed of players from the Bryant Intramural Basketball Leagues, has won the Greater Providence Y. M. C. A. Community Basketball League title.

By winning this title, the team has won the privilege of representing Providence in the Interstate Tournament which entertains the best talent in the states of Rhode Island and Massachusetts. Providence has drawn Fall River as its opponent in the quarter finals of the tournament. This game will be played Wednesday night at 7:30 P. M. at the Providence Y. M. C. A. The winner of this game will play the winner of the Cambridge-Dorchester game, which is scheduled the same night in Cambridge, in the semi-finals at Springfield College on April 7th.

The team members deserve much praise for their successful efforts. Although basketball has been playing second fiddle to their studies, they have donated a great deal of their free time to the team. They have also paid their own entrance fees and other expenses. If the team makes the semi-finals in Springfield on Saturday, April 7, why not go along and give them your support. They are one of the top-seeded teams in the tournament and have an excellent chance of reaching the finals. Your support would certainly help.

The players are:

Richard Gayer	Ozzie Van Patten
Bob Blinn	Jim Rogers
Stearns Wood	Bill Dewey
Joe Lemieux	Joe Ferriera
Jim Kressin	Joe Trepani
Dick Mellen	Pete Veritas

Phi Sig Holds Annual St. Pat's Dance

On Saturday evening, March 17, Phi Sigma Nu held its annual St. Patrick's Dance at Rhodes Annex on the Pawtuxet.

The dance hall was gaily decorated with green and yellow streamers and gay and light Irish music was furnished by Manny Allen and his orchestra.

The holiday spirit held forth among those who braved the bleak weather to celebrate the holiday in true Irish fashion.

The brothers of Phi Sigma Nu wish to thank everyone who helped make the dance a success.

Pageant Open to Bryant Girls!

The Providence Jaycees are looking for qualified contestants for the forthcoming Miss Providence Pageant, and emphasis is being placed on co-eds in Rhode Island colleges. During the past two years most of the entrants have been college students, so every college girl in Rhode Island should be aware of this annual event. There are wonderful prizes available such as $25,000 in scholarships at the national level and lesser amounts at state and local pageants.

The following girls are Rhode Island co-eds who have been previous winners. Virginia Gregory was chosen Miss Rhode Island of 1955 while she was attending Rhode Island College of Education. Beverly Jansen was a student at Bryant when she was acclaimed Miss Providence of 1955. Last year's winner, Liz Bradley, had been a student at Rhode Island School of Design, prior to taking the Miss Providence crown. Claire Emerson, Miss Rhode Island of 1956, was a graduate of the University of Rhode Island. Just about every school in the state has been represented.

Entrance requirements are easy. Girls must be high-school graduates, eighteen years old by September, and single. The six months' residence requirement is waived for girls enrolled in any college in Rhode Island and even out-of-staters are eligible to enter here—as long as they don't enter a pageant in their home town.

Intelligence plays as big a part in the final selection as does beauty. Add to this poise and personality. Talent also enters into the picture, but it needn't be what you would normally think of as talent. Modeling clothes one has made, reading a dramatic playlet, talking on one's desired career are a few among many types of talent performed by contestants.

The 1957 Miss Providence Pageant will be held Friday, April 20, in the Garden Room of the Sheraton-Biltmore Hotel. Applications for this pageant close on March 31. Any girl interested can obtain details by sending her name, address, phone number and a recent snapshot to Pageant, P. O. Box 805, Providence.

The Male Strikes Back

Coeds made headlines at Paducah Junior College when ten of them appeared on the campus in blue jeans and shorts. The men objected, so twenty girls paraded in this fashion the next day, the Pennsylvania News reports.

But the males had their revenge. Next day, the entire male student body attended class in skirts and blouses.

Square Dancing

If you've a "yen" to do a little square dancing instead of the usual round dancing, come to the gym Wednesday nights after the movies. Wear comfortable clothes and rubber-soled shoes. Informality is the keynote of these dances; so bring a partner if you want, but be sure to bring yourself.

Even if you're a greenhorn at folk and square dancing, come anyway. You will have a good opportunity to learn because you will find plenty of left-footed company who are beginners too.

Ken Cedergren will be the caller and will do the instructing.
